Name Dubrovnik Summer Festival

Short description

Dubrovnik Summer Festival is one of the oldest European festivals that annually, during 47 summer days (10 July – 25 August), presents rich and vibrant theatre, ballet, opera, classical music, jazz, visual arts, film and folklore program. Crucial for the success of the Festival is its longevity and continuously high artistic standard, but also the Festival's concept, which makes it different from numerous others. Unlike the majority, the Dubrovnik Summer Festival doesn't use open-air venues as mere visual attractions and only as sets. The space is decisive in creating a theatrical event, so the festival catalogue, during nearly seven decades of existence, comprises approximately 120 various venues! Festival believes that the City (including its residents) is a major co-creator of the Festival's artistic product and that the artistic production is a matter of the deepest public interest. The Festival has been a member of the European Festivals Association since 1956.
